It is hoped that every genuine Native American will be present. Come from every ward in the city. Do not fail, as you will hear something that will make you feel as in former days. Come!

Short Creptrs.—The merchants of Wilmington, Del., like many others, are about to adopt measures for cash payments or short credits. This is a doctrine for which the Sun has for years contended, and it is gratifying that at last that what many have heretofore ridiculed is now becoming so popular. Fortunate for all of us if it had been adopted long ago.—Baltimore Sun.

wise deacon, who, whenever a proposition was made, would jump up and advocate the measure, asserting that he was just thinking of that very thing. On one occasion a brother deacon, struck with this peculiarity of his fellow member, who was always thinking but never acting, except when the way was clear and smooth, and the pros pect of profit certain, rose in his place and suggested that, as salt was very scarce and dear, and entered so largely into the consumption of every family, that the farmers in that neighborhood be recommended to saw each a bushel of salt, that they might raise a crop. No sooner was the suggestion made, than up jumps the deacon, exclaiming, "An excellent suggestion; I was just thinking of it." The laughter of his associates made him aware of his blunder.

It is just so with the Baltimore Sun. It is always claiming to have done-yet never doinganything but dirty work.

ODEON BUILDINGS .- Reader, if you desire any thing in the book line, anything, grave, or gay, caustic, witty, farce or tragedy, you will find it as Joe Shillington's, north-east corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Four-and-a-half street. Do you know Joe? Well, we thought every body knew Joe Shillington. We will be happy to introduce him to you. You can't mistake him. Enter his Depot of Knowledge, and if you see a man upon whose countenance Good Nature has set his seal .one whom you feel disposed to fall in love with at sight-whose pleasant visage and obliging manner tempt you to linger a while, after you have made your purchase, that is Joe Shillington.

Look around you. Is there anything you want in his line? Ask for it, pay for it, and make room for others.

THE PROTESTANT ORPHAN ASTLUM-Mr. EDITOR :-With your permission I will occupy a small space in your valuable paper, for the purpose of propounding two or three questions to the President and Mana-gers of the Protestant Orphan Asylum of this city, hoping that they will find it convenient to inform the public why it is the things are allowed to exist at the Asylum, as volong they are to continue; for, if it is not the managere to correct the evils complained of, the contributors to the support of the Asylum should be made aware of the fact, that they may find some other object upon which they may bestow their funds :

1st. Why is it, that since Miss Mary Wannall, (the former Matron) has quit the Asylum, the children are permitted to lounge about the streets so much? 2d. Why is it that the children of the Asylum are seen driving carts about the streets?

3d. Why is it that the children are allowed to be in the street putting in coal for our citizens? 4th. Why is it that when the bell rings for school the children are not in their places as they are wont 5th. Why is it that the Asylum is kept in such an

the streets with such dirty clothes and skin? We should like to know whose fault it is that the above evils exist, whether it is the fault of the mauagers or the matron. They should be remedied im mediately, for, if they are not, the objects for which the institution was established can never be attained. A FRIEND OF THE ORPHAN.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.—A few cases of public interest, involving general principles, have been decided by this Court since its sitting on Monday last.

The case where a magistrate was called in by a plaintiff, in a suit of debt, to sit in the absence of the magistrate before whom the trial was originally ruled, and without giving notice to the defendant of the change, was one of some importance. The Court decided adversely to the judgment of the substituted magistrate, on the ground of the illegality of the proceedings.

magistrate, on the ground of the illegality of the proceedings.

There were also some cases, two at least, involving the question whether the description of liquor known and sold as "lager beer" was of such an intoxicating nature as to bring it within the category of articles subject to tax under the Corporation ordinance. On inquiry and hearing the testimony of some witnesses, experts in "lager," the Corporation Attorney did not press the cases, allowing the magistrates judgments fining the lager-selling to be reversed; the language of the law as at present existing not appearing to sustain those judgments.

On an appeal from the judgment of a magistrate in favor of a constable who had bargained with a person from whom a sum of money for a valuable consideration, but who had failed to return the whole of the money stolen, and was therefore refused the money stolen, and was therefore refused the person from whom sum of mother for a valuable consideration, but who had failed to return the exhole of the money stolen, and was therefore refused the stipulated reward, the Court reversed the magistrate's decision in favor of the constable, with costs, and administered besides to the constable a severe reprimand for demanding pay for doing his simple duty, and called upon him to show cause why he should not be dismissed from his office. On Saturday the call was to have been answered, but at the request of the constable's counsel the Court postponed the time of the answer to Saturday next. The officer we here allude to is A. E. Keese.

In the case of a tavern-keeper, Werner, who had attempted to evade the lotter of the law and sell iquor on Sunday, by getting his customers to deposit their money in a box instead of making direct payment, the judgment of the magistrate who fined him was sustained by the Court.

Why is it? what is the cause of it? It came upon us suddenly—unexpectedly, as did the bloody acts of the 1st of June, since which time, deeds of blood and riolence have been of every day occurrence in Washington. Who is to blame? When will these things end? Who began the affray of Monday? Who? Who was arrested? Who?

RECIPE FOR GROWING BIG MEN.—Recently some wise Frenchman published a learned treatise on the means of getting rid of hideously large paunches, which, reduced to a point, is nothing but to use animal food, especially lean meat, and indulge is vegetables as little as possible. But the greatest discovery of all has been made by Dr. W. Holmes, who tells us that the reason why the human race deteriorates in some regions is the lack of material in the soil to produce bone. He instances New England as not furnishing limestone in sufficient quantities, except in Western Vermont, where it is abundant, and where the men grow large in proportion. We copy from an exchange paper the following description of the new theory:

"In Kentucky, Ohio, and Western Vermont, RECIPE FOR GROWING BIG MEN.-Recently

exchange paper the following description of the new theory:

"In Kentucky, Ohio, and Western Vermont, men grow to larger sizes because of the limestone formation under the soil. Parts of families have emigrated to these regions, and the result in the next generation has been a larger bone development in those who left Massachusetts than in those who remained. Keniucky, Ohio, and Iowa, will grow great men. The finest figure in the world will be found in the Valley of the Mississippi, in a few generations. In-door labor, so unnatural for men, will weaken the vital powers and stop the growth in large cities; but the great and stop the growth in large cities; but the great and glorious West, with its broad prairies, will compensate for the growing feebleness of the Eastern States."

Acting on the limestone theory, we shall expect some of the agricultural societies to offer a prize for the biggest man of limestone growth.

THE HICCUP.—Some time ago I had occasion to call at a Highland shooting lodge, and on entering the kitchen, where two English sportsmen were siting, I happened to be attacked by a fit of the hiccup. One of the sportsmen took a piece of grey paper from his pocket, and after lighting and blowing it cut, he started up, and held the fomes of it opposite my mouth and noetris. I started, to be sure, but was quite astonished to find myself immediately cured; and I have since seen it frequently tried on others, and always proving a never-failing remedy.—Iverness Courier.

A MEDICINAL INSECT .- It is said that a little insect, known as the golden cetonides, found in considerable quantities on rose trees, when pounded to a powder, and administered internally, produces in the person taking it a deep sleep, which sometimes lasts for a period of thirty-six hours, and which has the effect, in many cases, of completely nullifying the hydrophobia affection.
